The Client Manager is an important and high-profile role within HistologiX. The Client Manager leads the delivery of our projects and is a role that requires you to liaise directly between HistologiX project functions and our clients, acting as that accountable point for delivery and quality whilst maintaining financial control.

You will serve as the primary project contact with the client, ensuring efficient and timely project status reporting. You will be the key driver for monitoring team performance against contract and client expectations and according to key performance metrics.

You will have a degree or higher qualification in a Life Science, with significant post qualifying experience and strong interpersonal skills. This is an ambassadorial role, requiring a communicator who is comfortable working across multiple functions and balancing business and client needs.

If this sounds like you, contact Barbara McManus at barbara.mcmanus@histologix.co.uk for an informal discussion in the first instance.
